FOREWORD

The 1965-1966 edition of the Montana Directory of Manufacturers and Buyer's Guide contains information on location and products of the manufacturing plants in Montana. This directory was compiled in the offices of the State Planning Board from information supplied entirely by Chambers of Commerce, local development groups and service or business organizations located in the county seats of all Montana counties.

Acknowledgements for cooperation and assistance in the gathering of this material are gratefully extended to the state and local Chambers of Commerce; State Extension Service; Montana State Unemployment Compensation Commission and many other local development and service organizations too numerous to mention individually.

A special thanks goes to Mrs. Dorothy Goggin, Mrs. Elsie Smart and Miss Laurie McCarthy of the Planning Board Staff. Their expert clerical assistance in the compilation of this material represented a tremendous assist.

Without the wholehearted support of all those mentioned, this directory could never have been assembled.

This book has been carefully checked for errors and omissions, however it must be realized errors will occur despite all of the care given. If an error is noted please notify the State Planning Board and it will be noted on our records.

EXPLANATION OF LISTINGS

Organization of the Directory

This directory is divided into four major sections: Part I, an alphabetical listing of all manufacturers in Montana; Part II, a geographical listing of manufacturing establishments alphabetically by city within counties; Part III, a Standard Industrial Code Classification listing manufacturers alphabetically by city according to code progressions; and Part IV, an alphabetical index of products produced in Montana. Complete information about a manufacturing firm is provided only in one place in the directory—in the Standard Industrial Code Classification listing. All other lists of this publication refer the user to that section.

Part I. Alphabetical Listing of Montana Manufacturers

Company names are shown as they appeared on the informational material received in this office. In addition to listing the name of manufacturing establishments and the S. I. C. code number or numbers, the city of the plant's location is also presented.

Part II. Geographical Listing of Manufacturing Establishments

The geographical listing has been arranged by county, so that it can be correlated with Census of Manufacturers figures which are reported by county. Within each county section cities are listed alphabetically and, under each city, manufacturers are listed alphabetically. Also included in this section is a complete listing of cities in Montana and the counties in which they are located. This index of Montana cities represents the first few pages of Part II.

Part III. Standard Industrial Code Classification Listing

The major entry in the Standard Industrial Code Classification listing for each manufacturing plant contains the following information: name of company; street address (actual location of the physical plant); mailing address (if different from street address); name of principal officer or person to contact at this establishment and description of products manufactured at the plant. The title as well as the name of the person to contact at each establishment is shown, where provided, to aid the buyer in selecting the companies he wishes to contact.

Code Numbers

The four-digit code number under which the Standard Industrial Code Classification listing is organized, are the Standard Industrial Classification (S. I. C.) codes established by the U. S. Bureau of the Budget and published in its Standard Industrial Classifications Manual of 1957 as amended by the Supplement of 1958. These codes were developed in order to promote uniformity and comparability in the presentation of statistical data collected by various agencies of the U. S. Government, state agencies, trade associations, and private research organizations. Accordingly, the codes used in this directory conform with the industrial classifications used in the U. S. Census of Manufacturers.

S. I. C. Codes

The major S. I. C. code number, under which full information on each manufacturing establishment can be found in the Standard Industrial Code Classification Listing, (Part III), has been assigned according to the practice of the U. S. Bureau of the Budget on the basis of the plant's principal product in terms of value of shipments. However, in order to provide a complete listing of sources of different products produced in Montana, it was necessary to assign additional code numbers to the minor products of manufacturing plants. This is contrary to the practice of the U. S. Bureau of the Budget. For example, the Bureau would simply assign the S. I. C. code 2751 to a printing establishment which primarily does job printing on a type-set printing press, but which also publishes a local newspaper, does lithograph printing, and prints business forms and ruled note book paper. In this directory the printing establishment would not only be classified 2751, but also additional codes corresponding to each separate operation: 2711, newspaper publishing; 2752, lithograph printing; 2761, business forms; and 2782, ruled note book paper.

Part IV. Alphabetical Index of Products

This alphabetical list of manufactured products is designed for use as an index to only those products actually manufactured in Montana. Again, the only products listed are those which were supplied by our informational sources.

HOW TO USE THE DIRECTORY

To find information on a particular manufacturing company, turn to Part I, the Aphabetical Listing of Manufacturers. Opposite the company name will be a four-digit code number referring to a section in the Standard Industrial Code Classification Listing. Turn to that section of the Standard Industrial Code Classification Listing, Part III. Full information about the plant will be found under that code number. If the company has more than one establishment in Montana, each establishment will be listed in the alphabetical listing under the company name with its own code number. To find information about the company's entire operation in Montana, turn to each section of the Standard Industrial Code Classification Listing.

To find information on manufacturing plants in a particular city, turn to Part II, the Geographical Listing of Manufacturing Establishments, listed alphabetically by city within counties. Consult the Index of Cities in Montana, which consists of the first few pages in Part II. Opposite the city name will appear the county in which it is located. Then turn to the county section indicated to find the manufacturers of that city. Opposite each plant listed is shown the S. I. C. code or codes, which refers again to the Standard Industrial Code Classification Listing, Part III.

To find information about manufacturing plants producing a particular product, turn to Part IV, the Index of Products. Opposite the product description will be a code number or numbers referring to a section of the Standard Industrial Code Classification Listing, Part III. In that section will be found a list of all manufacturing plants in Montana producing that particular product, and which will be listed alphabetically by city. There has been no distinction made whether this product can be considered the firm's major production effort.

The average manufacturing employment as indicated in this chart clearly reflects the growth of Montana's economy. The potentials Montana has to offer industry are tremendous; the natural resources to supply basic raw materials requirements, ample manpower, as well as other major factors, all combined make Montana an attractive state to investigate for location of industry.

Montanans a businessmen . . .

Montana businessmen are aware of how important new industry is to the economic development of the state.

These businessmen, along with Chambers of Commerce, and the State Planning Board, will assist in securing plant locations or in the erection of buildings.

Many farsighted Montana communities have zoned industrial parks and have sites available for development. Several communities have industrial development corporations with investment capital available for sound projects.

Through the state-wide effort capital investments have averaged $20 million per year. In 1962 the total exceeded $50 million.

skilled labor . . .

Montana has an available source of skilled labor. More of Montana's labor force have been shifting from agriculture and mining to manufacturing.

Montana's labor is not only competitive on a rate basis, but it is more than competitive on a productivity basis. This is because the Montana workman is above average in education. Furthermore, a large portion have ranch or farm backgrounds and are therefore mechanically inclined, adaptable, dependable and self reliant. The Montana laborer is happy in his surroundings as a result of all the benefits derived from living in Montana.

Both state and private schools in Montana offer advanced courses in technical studies enabling industry's technical personnel to continue their education.

Organized research is carried on at the institutions of higher learning, government agencies, and private business organizations. Some of this research has been directly responsible for new industry in Montana.

educated youth . . .

One of Montana's greatest resources lies in its educated youth found on our college campuses and in the research laboratories.

The six units of the State University System with campuses at Bozeman, Missoula, Butte, ricul profe colle and Montana's people are interested in you. Sam Chapman, director of the Montana State Planning Board, works with these people to offer opportunities to new industries.

Together with its people, Montana has an abundance of natural resources, modern new industries, a stimulating climate, a summer and winter playground, and excellent educational facilities and hundreds of friendly communities.

If you are interested in the prosperity and potential of Montana, write the Montana State Planning Board.
